STATE TO LEASE FISH HATCHERY

PROMISE TO DOUBLE NUMBER OF EGGS HATCHED.

Intend to Purchase Local Hatchery Assuring Club Members Adequate Fry for Stocking Local Streams.

Since the establishment in 1914 of the Grayling Fish Hatchery club, consisting of about 125 members living in various cities throughout the United States, the State of Michigan has aided financially in the support of that institution. The hatchery has been wonderfully successful and has practically supplied the streams in this section of Michigan besides streams of the upper peninsula. The place has been visited by legislative committees from each legislature since beginning operations and the splendid work done here has elicited the praises of the visitors. The location of the hatchery, the excellent water supply, fine layout of the grounds and superior management have made this, as is claimed by State authorities, the best trout hatchery in Michigan.

Therefore it is the desire of the Conservation committee of the state to take over the hatchery and to enlarge its capacity. The hatchery season will begin soon and the committee desires to take the plant over at once but is unable to purchase it until such purchase is authorized by the State legislature, therefore a ten year lease, beginning July 1, 1921, was proposed by the State committee.

Recently there was a meeting of the board of directors of the Grayling Fish Hatchery club with representatives of the State Board at Saginaw and the details of the matter were thoroughly gone into. Later notices were sent to the several members of the Hatchery club, giving the details of the proposition and requesting that they meet in Grayling Tuesday, September 27th for the purpose of considering the matter.

Proxies were sent in to President

Rasmus Hanson by most of the absent members requesting that he represent them at the meeting. It was held in the Board of Trade rooms and while there were not many members present in person, the club was almost unanimously represented.

The matter was explained to the members and a resolution was unanimously passed, offering the State a ten year lease of the Hatchery property. In the resolution it was stipulated that one half of the brook trout fry hatched here were to be planted in the AuSable river and its tributaries and in the Manistee river and with an assurance that in no one year that there would be less than 2,500,000 for these streams. And further, the resolution required, that one half of all the rainbow and brown trout that are hatched here are also to be planted in these local streams. Thus the purpose for which the hatchery was established would be carried out, and with the possibility of increasing the hatchings and therefore afford larger plantings than could otherwise be hoped for.

The establishment of the Grayling hatchery is the outcome of efforts made by Marius Hanson of this city, who seeing the streams each year falling off in their fishing, realized that more attention must be paid to the restocking of the streams. Therefore he interested a large number of persons who had in the past enjoyed the recreation and sport that the excellent streams of Crawford County had afforded and a private club was organized.

Starting out in October of the year of 1914 with the modest sum of about $3,500 the hatchery plant was constructed and in the spring of 1915 about 2 million trout fry were planted. Work from that time in the construction of feeding ponds has gone steadily forward and now the equipment for hatching and caring for trout fry is superior to any of the State trout hatcheries. The club members have each paid $5.00 annually to be used in construction work, while the State has annually appropriated sufficient sums to pay part of the salary of the superintendent and his helpers.

Much of the success of the local hatchery is due to the splendid management it has had. Superintendent Zalsman is known as one of the best trout culturists anywhere in America. Back of this has been a capable board of directors who have given liberally of their time and aid in the management of the place.

Ever since the organization of the Hatchery club Mr. Rasmus Hanson has been the president and Marius Hanson the secretary-treasurer and manager. The other officers at present are as follows:

W. B. Mereshon, Saginaw, Vice President and P. G. Zalsman, superintendent. Directors: Rasmus Hanson, Marius Hanson and Frank Calkins, Grayling; S. O. Johnson, Detroit, and W. B. Mereshon, Saginaw. The resignations of Mr. Calkins and Mr. Johnson were on file and were acted upon at this meeting and P. G. Zalsman and Geo. L. Alexander of this city were elected to succeed them.

There is every reason to believe that a new era confronts the Grayling hatchery and that the state will enlarge it until it will become the best, largest and most modern trout hatchery anywhere to be found.

It was never intended that any of the stockholders should derive profit from the hatchery, nor has a single one of them received a dollar, but the dreams and hopes of the promoters and those who have associated themselves with them, are realized in seeing the grand old trout streams of northern Michigan coming into their own and the waters fast becoming again alive with the speckled beauties that add inspiration to the outings of the thousands of people who annually come here for recreation and pleasure.

If the work of the Grayling Fish Hatchery club is finished let it be to their great credit that they made possible the rejuvenation of this part of Michigan's broad expanse of play grounds, and that they did it for the great good of all and at a great deal of financial cost and personal effort. It has been a worthy work admirably carried out.

Wine at a Launching.

When a war galley was launched by the Vikings men were bound to the rollers so that the keel was sprinkled with their blood. The practice of breaking a bottle of wine over a ship's stem at the launching is regarded as a survival of this savage Scandinavian practice or "reddening the rollers," as it was called, just as the custom of lending an officer's charger before the coffin at his funeral is a survival of the practice of sacrificing a chieftain's wives and horses at his pyre.

KEEP IN TOUCH WITH HOME TOWN

NATIONAL "SUBSCRIBE TO HOME TOWN PAPER WEEK," NOVEMBER 7 TO 12

If everyone born and reared in this town had remained here to make his permanent home, we should be a city of many thousands more population than we now number.

On the other hand, cities and towns elsewhere that have attracted our youth would never have been founded, perhaps, and America would remain as it was in pioneer days—a great continent with a few scattered cities all too large, all over congested.

But the opportunity that calls men away from their native homes keeps the great movement alive with the result that practically every corner of America has in it a representative of Grayling, Michigan.

However, the home town always has its interest for the people who heeded the call to go elsewhere and news of its progress and the doings of its people is welcome news to the native and former resident, wherever he may now be located.

Correspondence, however faithful, cannot cover all the news and gossip, and seldom deals with more than family affairs. The perfect medium, of course, is the home town newspaper, which prints all the news of all the people. Some of these items, while of limited interest to you, might be of great interest to one away from home.

There is now a nation-wide movement on foot, sponsored by the National Editorial Association and other agencies, in which this paper is taking part, looking to a stimulation of interest in the Home Town Paper.

To do our part, we are this week offering an extra copy of the Avalanche to every subscriber with the request that he send it to a relative or friend out of town, with a special subscription blank which we will provide. This extra copy is free for the asking by writing or call at this office. Or, if preferred, we will send free copies to such former residents as you may designate.

NATIONAL LEGIONS' GRATEFUL FOR GRAYLING'S ENTERTAINMENT.

The officers and delegates attending the 20th annual national convention that was held in Grayling last week are appreciative of the entertainment afforded by the citizens of Grayling. The following letters and resolutions speak for themselves:

National President Olive M. Knapp, Mrs. Knapp, having been re-elected National President and who on account of the serious illness of her mother, says she wishes to again thank the people of Grayling for the splendid way they responded to her efforts and to say that the visitors came home elated with the wonderful way they were entertained.

Members of Camp Wagner of Grayling.

The members of Camp Wagner numbers 10 and 33, L. N. L. and N. L. V. S. desire to express thru the medium of this paper, their sincere thanks to each and every one who by their hearty co-operation made it possible to put Grayling first on their list for entertaining conventions. Especially are we indebted to the city council, the business men, the Board of Trade, School Board, Masons and Stars, those who assisted on the program on Wednesday night, to the Grayling Green House, and the Avalanche, and last but not least the City Band for the splendid concert Thursday eve.

Signed: E. S. Chalkers, Col. Emma Knibbs Pres. Martha Holliday, Gen. Chairman.

Resolution.

Resolved—that the National officers and delegates of the Ladies National League extend their most sincere thanks to the city of Grayling for their successful efforts in entertaining the 20th annual national convention of the Ladies National League, and the members of Camp Wagner nos. 10 and 33 for the most hospitable way in which we were entertained at the Campfire and Banquet.

Respectfully Submitted, Winifred M. Sluyter, Flint. Ada J. Green, Detroit. Isabella Foreman, Bay City.

A letter, written by one of the delegates to the National League of Veterans and Sons held here reads as follows: "I feel that we should do more than just say thank you for your kindness in giving us that beautiful ride that we enjoyed so much. May you and your people of your city be spared to entertain and interest all visitors as well as you did us. Then your people's good name will be heralded to the world. When such men live in a town, it cannot help but be a start today for Indianapolis to attend the Grand Army of the Republic national reunion."

Yours very truly, M. C. Barney, Flint, Mich.

GRAYLING M. C. TEAM WON FROM KALKASKA.

Kalkaska Victim of Shut-out Twice This season at Hands of M. C.

Grayling went to Kalkaska last Sunday and defeated the Kalkaskians by the score of 9-0. The score for the first six innings stood 0-0, but when the game was over Grayling had 9 runs to their credit made in the last three innings. This was the second shut-out that Kalkaska had suffered at the hands of the locals and it was hard for them to give it up.

The game started in to be a pitchers battle between Laurant and Sherwood but in the 7th inning the boys started to maul the ball around so that Sherwood went out in favor of Cunningham, but the locals also hit him hard. Babe Laurant pitched his same old steady game and held them to 5 scattered hits, while his team gathered in 10 hits.

The feature of the game was the all round fielding of the locals who played in their old time form, E. Smith making the feature play of the game when punning with his back to the ball pulled one down from the clouds.

Grayling had all their loyal fans with them about 25 cars in all making the trip to cheer the boys on.

Reynolds played short for the locals and figured in 2 fast double plays with Laurant and Milnes.

Grayling is now trying to get a game with Boyne City to be played at Gaylord Oct. 9th, providing they will accept the terms offered them which is hoped they will.

Following is the score by innings: Grayling 0 0 0 0 0 4 2 3 9 10 1 Kalkaska 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 5 4 Batteries: Babe Laurant and Johnson; Sherwood, Cunningham and McKeller.

Farm Bureau Notes

R. D. BAILEY
County Agricultural Agent

A Magician Of The Fields.

We are all interested in seeing clever things done, whether it be Edison improving the electric light and storage battery; or Burbank breeding the pricklers of the cactus and thus making a splendid cow feed; or Marconi inventing the wireless telegraph.

Clever things are done in Agriculture too. Babcock invented a machine that shows accurately the butter fat in milk.

DeFavall invented a machine that will yank the cream (butter fat) out of milk.

Several men have invented machines that will milk cows satisfactorily.

Probably our grandfather would have said: "It can't be done."

Now Professor Frank Spragg, of Michigan Agricultural College, comes along with the Rosen Rye that he has developed—the best rye ever grown in Michigan.

Professor Hughes, of Iowa Agricultural College, gives us the wonderful Hubam, or annual white sweet clover, that gives hay or pasture the year it is sowed.

Bacteriologists have shown us that the successful growth of the clover, alfalfa, vetch, and other legumes is greatly aided by something that lives, but is too small to be seen by the unaided eye—the nitrogen-fixing bacteria.

All these are clever things, much like the tricks of the magician that we see at a show.

Yet, clever agricultural things can be done by farmers dressed in plain clothes, and living in obscurity.

Sauger Wheeler in Canada, is an agricultural wizard, a Magician of the Fields.

Some years ago we read of him in the Country Gentleman; how he, living away off by himself, had ideals and day dreams of improvement, of doing better with what he had. He dared to break away from neighborhood customs. He dared step out from the ranks of the common crowd and become a master farmer.

He wanted to improve the wheat that he grew, so, with basket fastened to his waist, and with shears in hand, he went up and down in his fields selecting the biggest heads of wheat, one by one.

At night these were shelled by hand and the grain picked over by hand, until, with incredible toil, he had a peck of beautiful seed wheat, selected kernel by kernel.

This was sowed under the best conditions he could secure, and the selection repeated.

He soon began to take local prizes on wheat, for yield, appearance and quality.

He then took sweepstakes prizes for Canada; then, the international sweepstakes.

Wheeler, on his Saskatchewan farm has a wheat production record of 82 bushels an acre.

In international expositions he has won the world's championship five times.

He gets $30 a bushel for Early Triumph, his new variety of seed wheat.

It ripens 10 days earlier than any other wheat there, and yields 8 to 10 bushels more to the acre.

That helps all farmers, by increasing their possible profits.

It moves the wheat belt 100 miles farther north, adding millions of acres to the wheat area.

He is a magician of the Fields. Governors and Senators will be forgotten when Sauger Wheeler of Saskatchewan will be remembered, who he goes about in his fields clad in overalls.

His chance to be a magician of the Fields, to step out from the ranks of the common crowd, from the ranks of the shiftless, from the ranks of the thrifless, from the ranks of the hopeless, is no better than yours or mine.

There can be, and should be, Magicians of the Fields in Crawford County.

It will not be necessary to try to develop a new wheat or a new corn.

There are tasks that demand our more immediate attention.

There is soil to be improved.

The yields on nearly every farm can be doubled without doubling the labor.

What a credit it is to a man, and what a satisfaction, when people, passing say: "My how the looks of his farm, and the yields of his fields have improved!"

Who living right among us now, has the ideals, the grit, the gumption, the punch, to become a Magician of the Fields?

The star can be made this fall, by sowing rye for use as green manure next spring.

This winter a little pulverized limestone can be hauled.

Next spring a little certified, scarified Grimm Alfalfa can be sowed with a little acid phosphate, and a start has been made towards becoming a Magician of the Fields.

Who will be the Sauger Wheeler of Crawford County?

MICHIGAN APPLES IN GREAT DEMAND.

Michigan apples are reported in great demand by the Michigan Fruit Growers' Exchange, according to the State Farm Bureau. With New York having but 25 per cent of a normal crop, no commercial crop at all in Ohio or Illinois, Indiana and Missouri, buyers are declared to be making every effort to contract Michigan's crop, which is reported to be between 35 and 40 per cent of normal. Only the northwest boxed apple states have a normal crop.

Prospects are good for an increasing demand for Michigan apples, says fruit growers exchange. Dutchess apples were reported as likely to start off at $2.50 a bushel.

Studebaker

This is a Studebaker Year

For the first eight months of 1921,

Our sales of Studebaker Cars were:

41% MORE than for the same period of 1920.
101% MORE than for the same period of 1919.

But our sales of Repair Parts were:

13% LESS than for the same period of 1920.
3% LESS than for the same period of 1919.

While the total numbers of Studebaker Cars sold were:

326,000 up to September 1st, 1919.
375,000 up to September 1st, 1920.
442,000 up to September 1st, 1921.

Summing up 116,000 more Studebaker Cars were maintained in operation with 3% less parts business than two years ago, which conclusively proves that—

Studebaker Cars are standing up in service and staying out of repair shops, to a degree unexcelled, we believe, by any cars of whatever price.

ABE, THE FIGHTER.

Synopsis.—Samson and Sarah Taylor, with their two children, Joseph and Betty, travel by wagon in the summer of 1831 from their home in Vergennes, Vt., to the West, the land of plenty. Their destination is the country of the Sangamon, in Illinois. At Niagara Falls they meet a party of immigrants, among them a youth named John McNeil, who also decides to go to the Sangamon country. All of the party suffer from fever and ague. Sarah's ministrations save the life of a youth, Harry Needles. In the last stages of fever, and accompanied by the Taylors, they reach New Salem, Illinois, and are welcomed by young Abe Lincoln. The Taylors are introduced to everyone and decide to settle at New Salem. Among their first acquaintances are Jack Kelso and his pretty sixteen-year-old daughter, Bim. Samson and Abe get timber for the Taylor cabin. John McNeil arrives.

CHAPTER IV—Continued.

The logs for the new house were ready two days after the cutting began. Martin Waddell and Samuel Little sent teams to haul them. John Cameron and Peter Lukins had brought the window sash and one clapboard from Hendricks in a small flatboat. Then came the day of the raising—a clear, warm day early in September. All the men from the village and the near farms gathered to help make a home for the newcomers. Samson and Jack Kelso went out for a hunt after the cutting and brought in a fat buck and many grouse for the dinner, to which every woman of the neighborhood made a contribution of cake or pie or cookies or doughnuts. "What will be my part?" Samson had inquired of Kelso.

"Nothing but a jug of whiskey and a kind word and a house warming," Kelso had answered. They notched and bored the logs and made pins to bind them and cut these that were to go around the fireplace and window spaces. Strong, willing and well-trained hands heaved and fitted the logs together. Alexander Ferguson lined the fireplace with a curious mortar made of clay in which he mixed grass for a binder. This mortar he rolled into layers called "cats," each eight inches long and three inches thick. Then he laid them against the logs and nerved them in place with a woven network of sticks. The first fire—a slow one—baked the clay into a rigid, stone-like sheath inside the logs and presently the sticks were burned away. The women had cooked the dinner on a table of rough boards resting on poles set in crutches. At noon one of them sounded a conch shell. Then with shouts of joy the men hurried to the fireside and for a moment there was a great spluttering over the wash-basins. Before they ate, every man except Abe and Samson took a pull at the jug. "Long of short," to quote a phrase of the time, it was a cheerful company that sat down upon the grass around the table with loaded plates. Their food had its extra seasoning of merry jests and loud laughter. Sarah was a little shocked at the forthright directness of their eating, no knives or forks or napkins being needed in that process. Having eaten, washed and picked away their dishes the women went home at two. Before they had gone Samson's ears caught a thud of a horse's feet in the distance. Looking in its direction he saw a cloud of dust in the road and a band of horsemen riding toward them at full speed. Abe came to him and said:

"I see the boys from Clary's Grove are coming. If they get mean, let me deal with 'em. It's my responsibility. I wouldn't wonder if they had some of Quid's whiskey with them."

The boys arrived in a cloud of dust and a chorus of Indian whoops and dismounted and huddled their horses. They came toward the workers, led by burly Jack Armstrong, a stalwart, hard-faced blacksmith of about twenty-two with broad, heavy shoulders, whose name had gone into history. They had been drinking some but no one of them was in the least degree off his balance. They scuffled around the jug for a moment in perfect good nature and then Abe and Mrs. Waddell provided them with the best remnants of the dinner. They were rather bold. Soon they went up on the roof to help with the rafters and the claphounding. They worked well a few minutes and suddenly they came scrambling down for another pull at the jug. They were out for a spree and Abe knew it and knew further that they had reached the limit of discretion.

"Boys, there are ladies here and we've got to be careful," he said. "Let's stick to the job till four o'clock. Then we'll knock off for refreshments."

The young revelers gathered in a group and began to whisper together. Samson writes that it became evident then they were going to make trouble and says:

"We had left the children at Rutledge's in the care of Ann. I went to Sarah and told her she had better go on and see if they were all right."

"Don't you get in any fight," she said, which shows that the women knew what was in the air.

"Sarah led the way and the others followed her."

Those big, brawny fellows from the Grove when they got merry were looking always for a chance to get mad at some man and turn him into a plaything. A chance had come to get mad and they were going to make the most of it. They began to growl with discontent. Some were waving their

One of them ran to his horse and brought a bottle from his saddle bag. It began passing from mouth to mouth. Jack Armstrong got the bottle before it was half emptied, drained it and flung it high in the air. Another called him a hog and grappled him around the waist and there was a desperate struggle which ended quickly. Armstrong got a hold on the neck of his assailant and choked him until he let go. This was not enough for the sturdy bully of Clary's Grove. He seized his follower and flung him so roughly on the ground that the latter lay for a moment stunned. Armstrong had got his blood warm and was now ready for action. With a wild whoop he threw off his coat, unbuckled his right shirt-sleeve and rolled it to the shoulder and declared in a loud voice, as he swung his arm in the air that he could "out jump, out hop, out run, throw down, drag out an' lick any man in New Salem."

In a letter to his father, Samson writes: "Abe was working at my elbow. I saw him drop his hammer and get up and make for the ladder. I knew something was going to happen and I followed him. In a minute everyone was off the roof and out of the building. I guess they knew what was coming. The big lad stood there swinging his arm and yelling like an Indian. It was a big arm and muscled and curled up some, but I guess if I'd shoved the cat's paw down his sleeve, I'd know just how good a man Abe was and I was kind of scared for a minute. I never found it so hard work to do nothing as I did then. Honest, my hands kind of ached. I wanted to go and cuff that fellow's face, and grab him and toss him over the ridge pole. Abe went right up to him and said:

"Jack, you ain't half so bad or half so curly as you think you are. You say you can throw down any man here. I reckon I'll have to show you that you're mistaken. I'll rattle with you. We're friends an' we won't talk about lickin' each other. Let's have a friendly rattle."

"In a second the two men were locked together. Armstrong had lunged at Abe with a will. There was no friendship in the way he took hold. He was going to do all the damage he could in any way he could. Half of them ran to his horse and brought a bottle from his saddle bag. It began passing from mouth to mouth. Jack Armstrong got the bottle before it was half emptied, drained it and flung it high in the air. you," he said. "You get on to your horse and go home."

"Abe, you're a better man than me," said the bully, as he offered his hand to Abe. "I'll do anything you say."

So the Clary's Grove gang was conquered. They were to make more trouble but not again were they to imperil the foundations of law and order in the little community of New Salem. As they were starting away Bap McNeil turned to Harry Needles and shouted: "I'll git even with you yet—you slab-sided son of a dog."

That is not exactly what he said but it is near enough.

CHAPTER V.

In Which the Character of Sam-Kelso Figures Out in a Strange Adventure That Begins the Weaving of a Long Thread of Romance.

The shell of the cabin was finished that day. Its puncheon floor was in place but its upper floor was to be laid when the boards were ready. Its two doors were yet to be made and hung. Its five windows to be fitted and made fast, its walls to be chinked with mud mortar. Samson and Harry stayed that evening after the rest were gone, smoothing the puncheon floor. They made a few nails at the forge after supper and went over to Abe's store about nine. Two of the Clary's Grove gang who had tarried in the village sat in the gloom of its little veranda apparently asleep. Doctor Allen, Jack Kelso, Alexander Ferguson and Martin Waddell were sitting by the fireside while Abe sat on the counter with his legs hanging off. "I'm sorry we had to have trouble," Samson remarked. "It's the only spot on the day. I'll never forget the kindness of the people of New Salem."

"The raising bee is a most significant thing," said Kelso. "Democracy tends to universal friendship—each works for the crowd and the crowd for each, and there are no favorites. Every community is like the thousand friends of Thebes. Most of its units stand together for the common good—for justice, law and honor. The schools are spinning strands of democracy out of all this European wool. Railroads are to pick them up and weave them into one great fabric. By and by we shall see the ten-million friends of America standing together as did the thousand friends of Thebes."

"It's a great thought," said Abe. "No man can estimate the size of that mighty phalanx of friendship all trained in one school. Kelso went on. Two years ago the Encyclopedia Britannica figured that the population of the United States in 1895 would be 108,000,000 people, and in 1900, 122,000,000. Wealth, power, science, literature, all follow in the train of light and numbers. The crises which marked the empire of civilization from the Rhineland to western Europe will carry it from the latter to the new world."

"They say that electricity and the development of the steam engine are going to make all men think alike," said Abe. "If that's so democracy and liberty will spread over the earth. I reckon we are near the greatest years in history. It is a privilege to be alive."

"And young Doctor Allen added: "Young! What a God's blessed thing is that!" said Kelso. "Abe, have you learned 'The Coter's Saturday Night'?"

"Not yet. It's a heavy hog to hold, but I'll get a grip on an ear and a hind leg and lift it out of the pen before long. You see."

"Don't fall to do that. It will be a help and joy to ye."

"Old Kirkham is a hard master," said Abe. "I hear his bell ringing every time I get a minute's leisure. I'm high-tough with him. Now I want to study rhetoric."

"Only schoolmasters study rhetoric," Kelso declared. "A real poet or a real orator is born with all the rhetoric he needs. Rhetoric is a steed for a light load under the saddle, but he's too wretched to ride him."

"He was for the day of the planned knight out for those times. No man of sense would use a prancing horse on a plow or a stone boat. A good plow horse is a beautiful thing. The play of his muscles, the power of his stride are poetry to me, but when he tries to put on style he is ridiculous. That suggests what rhetoric is apt to do to the untrained intellect. If you've anything to say or write, head straight across the field and keep your eyes on the furrow."

In the last diary of Samson Henry Taylor is this entry:

"I went to Gettysburg with the President today and sat near him when he spoke. Mr. Everett addressed the crowd for an hour or so. As Kelso would say 'He rode the prancing steed of Rhetoric.' My old friend went straight across the field. When he finished, the field plowed and harrowed and fertilized by war, had been sowed for all time. The spring's work was done and well done."

At a quarter of ten the doctor rose and said:

"We're keeping Abe from his sleep and wearing the night away with philosophy. I'm going home."

"I came over to see if you could find a man to help me tomorrow," Samson said to Abe. "Harry is going over to do the chinking alone. I want a man to help me on the whipsaw while I cut some boards for the upper flooring."

"I'll help you myself," Abe proposed. "I reckon I'll close the store tomorrow unless Jack will lend it."

"You can count on me," said Jack. "I'm short of sleep anyhow and a day of rest will do me good."

Abe went with his friends to the door beyond which the two boys from Clary's Grove sat as if so-id asleep. It is probable, however, that they had heard what Samson had said to Abe.

Next morning Abe and Samson set out for the woods soon after daylight. "I like that boy Harry," said Abe. "I reckon he's got good stuff in him. The way he landed on Bap McNeil was a caution. I like to see a fellow come right up to the scratch, without an invitation just in the nick of time, as he did. That boy is a likely young colt—strong and limber and well put together and broad between the eyes."

"An' gentle as a kitten," Samson nodded. "There never was a better face on a boy or a better heart behind it. We like him."

"Yes, sir. He's a well topped young tree—straight and sound and good timber. Looks as if that little girl of Jack's was terribly took up with him. I don't wonder."

"What kind of a girl is she?" Samson asked.

"Awful shy since the arrow hit her. She don't know what it means yet. She'll get used to that, I reckon. She's a good girl and smart as a steel trap."

Harry Needles went whistling up the road toward the new house with sickle, hoe and trowel. As he passed the Kelso cabin he whistled the tune of "Sweet Nightingale." It had haunted his mind since he had heard it in the woods. He whistled as loudly as ever he could and looked at the windows.

Before he had passed, Bim's face looked out at him with a smile and her hand flickered back of the panes and he waved his head to her. His heart beat fast as he hurried along.

"I'm not so very young," he said to himself. "I wish I hadn't put on these old clothes. Mrs. Taylor is an awful nice woman but she's determined to make me look like a plow horse. I don't see why she couldn't let me wear decent clothes."

Sarah had enjoyed mothering the boy. His health had returned. His cheeks were ruddy, his dark eyes clear and bright, his tail form erect and sturdy.

He had helped Alexander Ferguson with the making of the fireplace and knew how to mix the mortar. He worked with a will, for his heart was in the new home. It was a fine September morning. The far reaches of the great, grassy plain were dimmed with haze. It was a vast, flowery wilderness, waving and murmuring in the breeze like an ocean. How long those acres, sown by the winds of heaven, had waited for the plowman now arrived!

"You go 'way from here or I'll kill you dead."

MOST TALK NOT CONFESSIVE

Assertion Made That Anecdotes Compose by Far the Greatest Part of Conversations of Americans.

For hours a group of men will talk and all problems fall like ducks on a ride range before their well-aimed epigrams. It may be a brilliant session, but we cannot forget thinking that not many serious thoughts are expressed with fervor; that few honest emotions have adequate utterance. A gathering often is devoted to anecdotes, quips and the cracking of jokes, like the biblical theists, under the conversational pot.

Of course, much conversation is necessarily anecdotal, but two travelers who meet in the smoker of a train crossing our American plains do not tell anecdotes merely, says the New York Sun. There the anecdotes take on more meat and grow in length—they become tales. Again, however learned we are, we forget our pedantry when we talk in a smoker. For over a meal among those we know and will meet again we slough off our impulse to modesty and sincere self-expression and launch forth with all our drub erudition or else we sparkle in anecdote and say nothing to the point; forgetting that the best jests, aside the point, seem pointless.

In short, there is not always enough confessional conversation between Americans. In France and in Latin America the art of conversation has become an art of confession—the confession, indeed, of one's faults, follies and fancies. As for us, we feel that no one is so sympathetic to our personal histories, or what is more to the point, the emotional accompaniment of these histories.

Derivation of April. Authorities on derivation of words state that the word April, the name of our fourth month, was derived from the Latin verb, "aperio"—I open, and that the month was so named because it is the time when the buds of trees and flowers open. "If this were the case, it would make April singular among the months, for the names of none of the rest, as designated in Latin, have any reference to natural conditions or circumstances."

The Children's Party. Many people giving entertainments to children make the mistake of allowing them to play at games that are too exciting and heating or too long. It does not matter how much running about there is during the early part of the party, but for some time before the kiddies are due to go home, quiet, sit-down games should be arranged.

Carrying On With the American Legion

Despite the long trip, the Massachusetts department of the American Legion will send two large bands to the annual convention of the service organization at Kansas City, this fall.

A downtown rest room for the convenience of farmers' wives in the city for supplies and for city wives on shopping tours has been opened in Drumright, Okla., by the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion post there.

Because they considered the post a community asset and worthy of recognition, citizens of the town of Walburg, Wash., recently purchased a hotel building and presented it to Samuel W. Southard post of the American Legion for use as a clubhouse.

When heavy rains washed out the road to the village cemetery, the American Legion post of Natchez, Miss., called upon its farmer members. Each man brought a team of horses, gave two days' work and a new road was constructed.

Advocating a playground for the kiddies of the community members the Saylesville (Rhode Island) post of the American Legion brought the matter to completion by leveling the ground and putting the equipment in place with a saving of several hundred dollars to the city.

The athletic tastes of the young war veterans of Oklahoma were evidenced recently when the state department asked each post of the American Legion what games they wanted at a state athletic meet. Horse-shoe pitching contests led the list, with tennis and golf poor seconds.

Ex-service patients in hospitals of Oregon have been extended free membership in the American Legion of the state, the posts waiving post dues and the department paying state and national fees, that the disabled may receive copies of the official magazine and the benefits of membership.

John Broadhead Wallace, son of the secretary of agriculture, and Miss Margaret Powell, Cedar Rapids, Ia., recently married, have been receiving the official congratulations of Argonne post, the American Legion, Des Moines, of which Mr. Wallace is a vice commander.

By besting a walking record which had been undisturbed for years, George N. Brown, Endicott, N. Y., won a wager of $100 which he divided equally between two American Legion posts of his vicinity. Mr. Brown holds the world's championship pedestrian record.

Chimes installed in every city and town of America, to play "The Star-Spangled Banner," each evening, would be a most fitting memorial to the war dead, according to a resolution introduced into the recent convention of the American Legion of North Carolina, seeking support of the state in the project.

After having achieved distinction in Pittsburgh, Pa., by being the first sailor married in an American Legion post, P. G. Rose was stranded in Albany, N. Y., in the middle of his honeymoon because he couldn't collect his bonus money. Members of the Albany Legion helped him to complete the wedding trip.

Insurance against rain, high winds and liability to spectators, is being sought by the Kansas City Flying club in preparation for the annual convention of the American Legion there this fall. Applications for the "freak" policies have been made to American companies and to Lloyd's of London.

An American Legion emblem, wrought in exquisite crochet in memory of the dead and wounded soldiers of the World war, which won first prize in a national knitting contest for Mrs. Velma S. Cole, Birmingham, N. Y., has been presented to her local post of the Legion. Mrs. Cole is an invalid.

Holding that a sense of shame would work where entreaties failed, the American Legion post of Zillah, Wash., recently took photographs of every dirty and unsightly back yard in the city. These photos were displayed in several stores of the city's main streets, and within a week, every back yard had been cleaned to perfection.

Transferred from San Francisco to St. Paul, Private Charles Gilbert, U. S. Marines, gained permission to hike to his new station. He completed the record match recently, after having been lost in the desert country of Battle Mountain, Nev., and without water for two days. He was "lifted along" by various American Legion posts which he visited along the route.

A romance of the Rhine ended tragically recently when Sergt. John Wolf of the army died shortly after returning to America with his young German bride. Penitence, following the fitness of her husband, the widow was taken in charge by the American Legion of New York and will be sent back to her home at Coblenz with money contributed by the Legionnaires.

The third annual reunion of the Thirty-fifth Division, A. E. F., composed of National Guard units of Missouri and Kansas, with large replacement drafts of national army troops from eastern states, will be held at Kansas City during the national convention of the American Legion, October 31, November 1 and 2.

What is claimed to be the first horse polo league organized in America, has been instituted by American Legion posts of Yakima Valley, Wash.

Outside of a Few Little Pleasantries, Campaign in Chigleyville Was a Quiet Affair.

"Was the last municipal campaign in Chigleyville a lively one?" "No," said Squire Withered. "I can't say it was as lively as some political fights we've had there in the old town."

"The candidates didn't indulge in personalities?" "None to speak of. The Hon. Jasper Suggs, who was a candidate for mayor, called the Hon. Cleo Phillips, who was the rival candidate, a puffer of widows and orphans, a white-livered skunk and a flop-eared hound, and Phillips told the voters that Suggs was a wolf in sheep's clothing, an' a gin-soaked, booze-guzzling political turncoat, but outside of a few little pleasantries like that it was one of the quietest campaigns we ever had in Chigleyville."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

An Ozark Genius. "That is quite a notion of yours, building your house on a side hill but that the slope of the structure will cause the front door to shut itself when left open," admiringly said a tourist in the Ozarks.

"Oh-yo," proudly replied a resident of Straddle Ridge. "It saves a heap of pestle, one thing and another. But it took me right smart of a while to figure out some scheme for opening it from the outside without touching it, but I got it at last. See that there lever block at the lower end of the house? Well, when the children come tearing home from school, instead of slamming at the door they pile onto the lever, heave ho, lift the house and the door flaps open as pretty as you please."—Kansas City Star.

Witty Rogue. Inkpen, the journalist, had just come to live in the little suburb, and, of course, as all newcomers to any district always are, he was the cause of interest to all of his neighbors.

Wimple called upon him one evening. "Snooks tells me," he started off, "that you push a pencil for a living."

"That's so, I do," replied Inkpen. "I think it's very foolish of you," frankly remarked Wimple. "Because a pencil should be lead," explained Wimple. Inkpen had not then learned that Wimple was the "Wag of the Village."

Do you know what constitutes a strong constitution?

To have sound, healthy nerves, completely under control, digestive organs that are capable of absorbing a hearty meal, means you have a strong constitution! Your general attitude is one of optimism and energy.

But an irritable disposition, frequent attacks of indigestion, and a languid depression, indicate your system is not in correct working order.

Probably you are not eating the proper food. Probably the nutritious elements are not being supplied to your system in the proper way.

Grape-Nuts is the wholesome, delicious cereal that promotes normal digestion, absorption and elimination, whereby nourishment is accomplished without auto-intoxication. A mixture of energy-giving wheat and malted barley comprise the chief elements of Grape-Nuts. A dish at breakfast or lunch is an excellent, wholesome rule to follow.

You can order Grape-Nuts at any and every hotel, restaurant, and lunch room; on dining cars, on lake boats and steamers; in every good grocery, large and small, in every city, town or village in North America.

THE NEW TEACHER.

In a way it is always a little embarrassing when the new teacher comes to town for her, or him, the villagers' souls are unbared as they are to no other person, not even a priest. The ordinary citizen forms his judgment of a man or woman largely by exterior things. The appearance of his home, the size of his car, the set of his jaw, the number of cigars he smokes, the amount of muscle in his arm, or the heartiness of his laugh are likely to be the factors that we consider.

The teacher from the first, has a deeper view. She comes to know the adults through the children, and you may well believe that she soon knows facts that the common people don't think of at all.

Mr. A may be the most important chap in town but it is the teacher who knows whether or not his little son can hold his place among his playmates. Mr. B may be the social leader but the teacher knows whether or not her daughter has been taught real politeness and consideration. C may be the village model for uprightness and honesty but the teacher knows it if his children are inclined to cheat in their examinations. Mrs. D may wear the biggest plumes in town on her hat but the teacher probably knows that her youngsters have pediculosis. The teacher may be proud of the bright-eyed boy whose father is the town ne'er-do-well and she may love the shy little girl whose careful work but old-fashioned garb shows the effect of thoughtful though poor parents.

The teacher knows just what girls are thinking more about their graduation flippers than their preparation for examination, and she forms her opinion of their parents accordingly. She knows just what ones are likely to get tired of school at about their sophomore year and she concludes that the parents have never been sticklers either. Also the teacher soon learns all about the mother who has to have little Nell stay out this afternoon to help mind the baby while mamma is off at a five hundred club. She knows when the minister's son learns to smoke and she learns things about Polly and Molly and Kate that the parents ought to know and don't. The teacher knows people in the same way that experts judge thoroughbred stock—by their offspring. When you consider it, isn't that the greatest test that can be devised any way? Wouldn't it be better if we all yield less attention to externals and learned to judge folks by the finished product of that greatest of God's factories—the Home?

Invitations were extended to the public to attend a reception given in honor of Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Doty at the Michelson Memorial Church Monday evening. There was a fine attendance, all expressing their pleasure at having them remain in Grayling for at least another year. The affair was held in the Sunday School room, which had been artistically decorated with brilliant maple and oak leaves, baskets and vases of flowers.

M. A. Bates, on behalf of the assembly, assured the honored guests that their service in Grayling was highly approved and extended their gratitude and appreciation, and pledged the hearty cooperation on the part of the people of the church in the work that was to be carried out during the coming year. Rev. Doty responded assuring their appreciation of the good feeling that existed and said that he hoped this was going to be a fine year for the church in a spiritual way. Mrs. Harold Jarmin sang a solo and was obliged to respond with an encore. Miss Kathryn Clark rendered a violin solo and she also assisted the audience with an encore. She was accompanied on the piano by Miss Hazel Abbott. Coffee and sandwiches were served. The evening festivities ended with the audience singing a number of songs. This begins Mr. Doty's fourth year in Grayling. He has seen the church attendance grow from a small handful to a well-filled church. Both he and Mrs. Doty are held in high esteem in our community both by members of his congregation and the citizens generally. He accepted the call to return to Grayling in preference to accepting a call to one of our larger churches in Detroit.

LABOR CONFERENCE IS OPENED

President Harding Addresses Men Called in Unemployment Crisis.

Washington.—The National Unemployment Conference, which the Administration hopes will evolve means of putting the nation's involuntary idle back to work, was formally opened here Monday by President Harding.

Addressing the half hundred industrial, economic and labor leaders comprising the conference, the President described the present industrial depression as a war inheritance throughout the world. As far as the United States is concerned, he added, he "would have little enthusiasm for any proposed relief which seeks either to subsidize idleness or to create a public treasury."

Belief was expressed by the President that the results of the conference would extend beyond the borders of the United States and that the delegates in their deliberations would be performing "a service to the world."

Chicago.—Evidence that whisky had been delivered from bootleggers to their customers in the police patrol of the Grand Crossing precinct is in the hands of Federal authorities, the district attorneys' office announced Monday. The move against liquor law violators in the police department was proceeding from three angles.

Chief Charles Fitzmorris, who has charged that 2,600 policemen are bootleggers and law violators, and who transferred 300 officers and men in one shake-up order, was continuing his investigation.

District Attorney Clyne promised Federal assistance in ridding the department of law violators.

$10,000,000 AID FOR VETERANS

Red Cross Provides Friendly Service of Many Kinds to Army of Disabled.

BULK OF WORK BY CHAPTERS

2,397 of These Are Helping Ex-Servicemen Obtain Benefits U. S. Provides.

One field of Red Cross service alone, that of assisting disabled veterans of the World War, entails expenditures $4,000,000 greater than the aggregate receipts of the Annual Roll Call of 1920, the American Red Cross announced in a statement urging a widespread increase in membership at the Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 24. At the present time National Headquarters and the nation-wide chain of Chapters of the Red Cross is spending approximately $10,000,000 annually for the relief of disabled ex-service men and their families, while the aggregate receipts from last year's Roll Call were approximately $4,000,000.

It is in the 2,280 of the 3,600 Red Cross chapters which still are helping solve the veteran's problem of adjusting himself to a normal civilian status that the greater part of the cost of this service is borne. Of the total sum spent for veterans' relief last year, National Headquarters expended a total of more than $2,000,000, while the remaining disbursement of approximately $7,000,000 represents the contribution of Chapters in this country-wide effort to assist the Government in providing the aid sorely needed by these men and their families.

An Ever Expanding Problem

That the problem of the disabled service man is ever-expanding and probably will not reach the peak before 1925, is the assertion of well-informed Government officials and that 2,397 Red Cross Chapters regard it as their most important work is evidence that the expansion is in no wise confined to a particular section but is, on the contrary, nation-wide. At the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1921, there were 25,000 disabled service men in the 1,692 United States Public Health Service, Contract and Government Hospitals and Soldiers Homes, and that number is increasing at a rate of 1,000 a month.

Thousands of these men receiving medical treatment, compensation and vocational training from the Government today, started their efforts to obtain them through the Red Cross Chapter. The Chapter, acting as the disabled man's agent in claims against the Government, informs the man as to the procedure necessary to gain for him that which is provided him by Federal statute. His applications for compensation, medical treatment and training are properly filed with the aid of this Red Cross Chapter.

Many Forms of Assistance

If there is delay before the man's claim is acted upon, the Red Cross Chapter lends the man money to meet the imperative needs of himself and his dependents.

Most vital to the man's gaining full benefit from the Government's care is keeping his mind free from worry about his home. Keeping the veteran's family from hardship of every kind and informing him of its welfare is another province of the Chapter. Free from fear on this score, the man's recovery and advancement usually is rapid.

Every month during the last year, the American Red Cross has given service of one kind or another to an average of 129,218 former service men and their families. An indication of the extent of the faith reposed in the Red Cross Chapter is to be found in the fact that there were 355,544 requests for friendly aid in the solution of personal problems.

448 Workers in Hospitals

While the man prior to entering Government care deals largely with the Chapter, afterward he comes into contact with the service provided by National Headquarters. There are 448 Red Cross workers in the United States Public Health Service and contract hospitals and other institutions in which these men are being cared for, whose duty it is to provide for his recreation, help him with his compensation claims, keep him in touch with his family; in short, meeting his every need outside of that provided by the Government. While these are a few of the responsibilities of the National Organization, they are by no means all. Among other Red Cross accomplishments for the year are:

It handled 70,732 allotment and allowance claims.

It delivered through its Chapter organization 63,655 allotment checks to veterans who had moved from the addresses furnished to the Bureau of War Risk Insurance.

Say what you will about druggists offering something "just as good" because it pays a better profit, the fact still stands that ninety-nine out of a hundred druggists recommend Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy, when the best medicine for diarrhoea is asked for, and do so because they know from what their customers say of it, that it can be depended upon. # ONE BRAND-ONE QUALITY-One Size Package

All our skill, facilities, and lifelong knowledge of the finest tobaccos are concentrated on this one cigarette—CAMEL.

Into this ONE BRAND, we put the utmost quality. Nothing is too good for Camels. They are as good as it's possible to make a cigarette.

Camel QUALITY is always maintained at the same high, exclusive standard. You can always depend on the same mellow-mild refreshing smoothness—the taste and rich flavor of choicest tobaccos—and entire freedom from cigarette aftertaste.

And remember this! Camels come in one size package only—20 cigarettes—just the right size to make the greatest saving in production and packing. This saving goes straight into Camel Quality. That's one reason why you can get Camel Quality at so moderate a price.

Here's another. We put no useless frills on the Camel package. No "extra wrappers!" Nothing just for show!

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And their added cost must go onto the price or come out of the quality.

One thing, and only one, is responsible for Camels great and growing popularity—that is CAMEL QUALITY.

As a purgative, Chamberlain's tablets are the exact thing required. Strong enough for the most robust, mild enough for children. They cause an agreeable movement of the bowels without any of that terrible griping. They are easy and pleasant to take and agreeable in effect.

90% of all cars use Ford, Buick or Dodge Size Batteries

Because of this concentration, which means volume production, our manufacturing costs on these sizes are low, with prices correspondingly low.

However, we do not ask you to buy a Philadelphia Battery on its low price alone. Even more important to you is its reliability, its freedom from annoying little breakdowns, and the unusual fact that failure of insulation is made a basis for adjustment under all Philadelphia guarantees.

The table below shows a number of popular cars using Ford, Buick and Dodge sizes. It shows prices on three types of Philadelphia Batteries for each car. Any type will give you good service and with reasonable care will far outlast its guarantee. Which type you select—twelve, eighteen or twenty-four month guarantee—depends on the same considerations which control your selection of tires.

The new mill of the Embury-Martin Lumber company at Cheboygan was destroyed by fire, Saturday, September 17th, origin of the fire being a mystery. The mill had been closed a week previous so there were but a few employees in the vicinity of the mill when the fire started. As there was a terrific western wind blowing down the straits at the time, in no time the fire spread through the large structure, and adjoining buildings were threatened. Two years ago a mill owned by this company burned on this same site and the company had hardly recovered from that loss when the Cheboygan Democrat says that although the firm have not worked out any definite plans of procedure, it looks as though this would end the lumber mill business in Cheboygan. A great number of men employed at this institution will now be without employment. The Embury-Martin company purchased the saw mill of R. Hanson & Sons located at T. Town and moved it to Cheboygan at the time they were rebuilding their new mill.

The Quality Store

Are you proud to pull out your watch?

FIFTY YEARS ago, perhaps, your grandfather bought a watch. Thick, elaborately ornamented and heavy in the pocket, it represented the highest skill of the watchmaker of that day. Perhaps it has come down to you as an heirloom.

And yet, if you were buying a watch today, would you choose such a model? Would you wear a suit of clothes of the style of a half-century ago?

Watchmaking has progressed. The modern thin models, with all the accuracy and sturdiness of their cumbersome predecessors, and with an added beauty of line, have become the ideal timekeepers for the man and woman of today. Such a watch can display with a full measure of pride.

Keep the old watch for the memories that surround it. But let us show you our new models—pocket watches of unsurpassed elegance, sturdy strap watches for the out-of-doors, dainty wristlets in gold and silver and platinum. We will show you the masterpieces of the finest watchmakers of today, in infinite variety of style.

We also invite you to view our selection of watch cases made by Wadsworth, the creator of many of the most popular designs in watch cases for thirty years.

If you want what you want when you want it—in the printing line—WE HAVE IT!

FOLLOW THE ARROW!!

The arrow along the road is a mighty helpful friend and a pleasant reminder to the driver. It is the only sign that never sees any arrows. Blunder along; stumble through; go way past the corner; use up all the gasoline finding the road; smash up against a tree, all because the arrow was unobserved.

Here it is now! The Arrow points to the church next Sunday. There are no detours between you and the church except your own soft inclination to lie around. The arrow points to that place where men and women spruce up within and without.

The Michelson Memorial church is your church if you so desire. The new year is on. The arrows are all set. Congregations are on the increase. Sunday school jumped last Sunday. Has the summer been a curse or a blessing to us. Has the Auto hurried us on to the land of a forgotten God or has it helped us to the land of God realized? Follow the Arrow next Sunday and

M. W. Seery of Chicago and his pilot W. S. Young of Grand Rapids arrived in Grayling Thursday afternoon from the Hinkley farm, sometimes known as the Garden farm, about 10 miles west of Grayling, where they had been flying quite high and could see a storm approaching therefore descended to avoid it. While in Grayling they spent some time getting acquainted with some of our citizens and purchasing additional supplies. The aviators were enroute for the Allendale fair, that is to be held this week in the upper peninsula. Also next week they will exhibit at another fair. The men promised that they would stop over in Grayling on their return trip and while here give the people an opportunity to ride. Sunday a couple of our citizens visited the men at the Garden farm and were privileged to enjoy the thrills and pleasure of a sail up in the clouds. The airship is a Canadian Curtis and is decorated like a fish. It is a sturdy machine with 40 feet planes. Mr. Seery, who is the owner of the machine, says that he likes this country except that the landing places are scarce. Mr. Young, the pilot, lives in Grand Rapids and was in the Aviation business six months before the war broke out and was one of 28 others in the country skilled in this work and was drafted to do instruction work. He says that he estimates that he has travelled over 400,000 miles in the air and he believes that there is no man living who has travelled as many miles as he. In all his experience, he says, he has never had a serious accident.

Tanlac has the largest sale of any medicine in the world. Over twenty million bottles have been sold in six years. No other medicine has ever approached it as a seller. A. M. Lewis, Druggist.

DOWAGIAC CASE Baffles Officers

NAIL-STUDDED WEAPON USED TO KILL FATHER, MOTHER, GIRL IN DOWAGIAC.

ONE DAUGHTER WILL RECOVER

Testimony At Inquest Develops New Sensations; Physicians Say Victim Was Assaulted.

Dowagiac, Mich.—Robbery now looms up stronger than ever as a possible motive for the triple murder over one week ago of Mr. and Mrs. William Monroe and their 19-year-old daughter, Neva, whose heads were battered in with a club as they slept in their beds in their little one-story frame shack on the outskirts of the city.

The hunt for the slayer gained added impetus when an augmented force of detectives, employed with a fund raised by popular subscription, took up investigation, and when it was announced the supervisors would offer a $5,000 reward for his capture.

The crime was committed at the farm home of the Monroes, on the outskirts of the city, possibly during the night of September 17, but was not discovered until Tuesday of last week. The murderer battered the heads of his victims with a nail-studded club as they slept in their beds. Little 12-year-old Ardith Monroe, also badly beaten about the head, and in a partial stupor, was still alive when found and physicians at the hospital where she was taken say she will recover but will be scarred for life. She was unable to tell the officers anything about the attack, having been apparently struck on the head with the club before awakening; the same way the other three victims had been disposed of by the slayer. The blood-stained club, matted with hair, was found in the room. There was no indication of robbery.

William Kinney was arrested by Sheriff Sherman P. Wyman at Temple and was brought back here for questioning. At a preliminary examination held at Cadillac the accused claimed a complete alibi, which he later established and was released. Officers had claimed that Kinney had been friendly with the murdered girl in 1920.

Police declare they have evidence that Kinney was in Dowagiac on the night the murder is believed to have taken place. He will be asked to explain his presence here, and also of alleged relations with Neva Monroe, the 19-year-old daughter who was murdered. Officers claim the two were quite friendly in 1920 and also that there was some friction between him and Neva's father.

An outstanding feature of the coroner's inquest was the development in physicians' testimony that an attempt had been made to assault Neva either before or after death, and that a similar attack had been made upon Ardith and possibly upon the mother. It also developed at the inquest that Neva was the unwed mother of a child now in an orphan asylum at St. Joseph.

ANOTHER THRONE LOST

Answered. For reasons of economy a certain downer had to part with her butler, relates an English exchange. She gave him a cordial reference to a prospective employer. A few days later she was annoyed to get a catechism of questions from this lady "Was he courteous, gentlemanly, honest, and of distinguished appearance?" To which she replied: "The Downer lady blank wishes to say that if her butler owned half the virtues enumerated she would have married him herself years ago."

DIGNITY IS THE KEYNOTE OF WINTER'S COSTUME SUITS

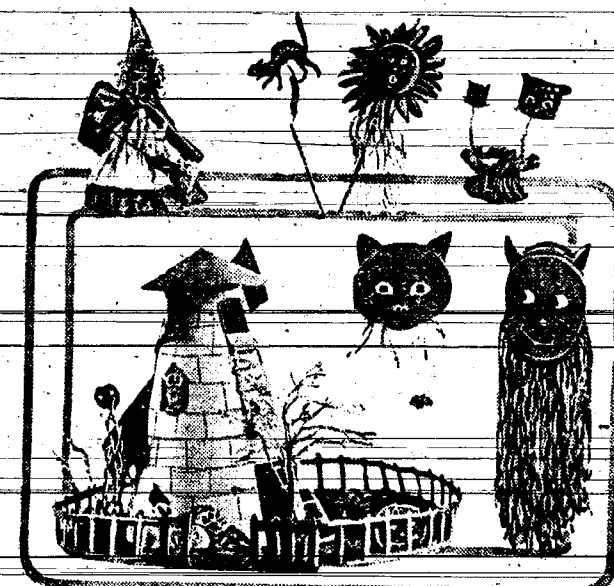

THE wandering and wayward airs of fashion, blowing this way and that at the beginning of the season, have set themselves in definite directions and now we are able to determine which way the wind blows. In suits it is toward long coats and somewhat lengthened skirts; coats that are made interesting by a little variety in styles and much variety in trimmings, and skirts that, with few exceptions, remain plain.

The box coat, with many variations in collars, sleeves, length and trimming, appeals to great numbers of women; as it is developed this season severity is unknown to it. It has more than one rival, the most important of them being coats that decide upon a little definition of the waistline or a ripple in the skirt portion at the sides and back and those in the long redingote style. In a season of dignified suits the last stands at the head of its class.

In the handsome suit pictured the figure is vaguely outlined and the coat ripples at the back below the waistline. It is uneven in length and split up at each side. Fur bands form the cuffs and emphasize the flare and ripple in the back, and fur provides a collar over the long revers. Embroidery in a striking pattern assumes the responsibility of finishing the trim front.

Since fashion has decreed longer skirts, without saying just how much longer they shall be, the length of this model is worth noting. It is long enough, longer than the average, by an inch or so, but in keeping with the style, which is intended for matrons.

HERALDING HALLOWEEN WITH WEIRD DECORATIONS

THE jolly festival of Halloween is in sight and imaginative people may turn loose their fancies and let them frolic among spooks and fairies. Young people and children enjoy this pranks festival more than any other, except Christmas.

In the shops that carry crepe paper and colored papers of other kinds, there are all sorts of funny and gruesome suggestions in the matter of dressing up the house and the table for a Halloween party. They present what their agents have found in the realm where witches, black cats, sprites, ghosts and strange creatures frolic under the autumn moon in the fields where the big yellow pumpkins lie. Having set down their findings in black and yellow and white on paper, they leave it to merry-makers to begin where they leave off and fashion such things as are shown above.

Only two light shades, or candle shades are pictured; both of them a combination of yellow and black paper with a few touches of black and white water-color paint. One of the shades is a cat's face of orange paper with black ears. The paper is pasted against a cardboard foundation, two faces joined by strips at the sides and supported by ordinary candle-shade holders or with wire. In the other shade, Jack-o'-Lantern sports a long beard of black crepe paper and a black horn.

A yellow windmill of cardboard surrounded by a fence of heavy black paper stands on a circular cardboard foundation. This is covered with paper grass and hay and two almost leafless trees (of wire wound with brown tissue paper) appear to be blown by a stiff wind. These trees might be managed with small twigs. Queer creatures inhabit the mill and yard and several pumpkins grin through the fence. These things are cut from paper made for the purpose and printed with Halloween figures. The witch may be cut from paper or made of black and white paper and wire. Her broom is brown tissue paper. A hellhound black cat and an astonished harvest moon are mounted on small sticks for favors. There are many kinds of these, including ghosts made like the witch, of white paper. Place cards and little holders for almonds or candy are as varied as any house could wish—all to be cut from printed paper and pasted to foundations of cardboard.

Autumn Colors and Fabrics. Autumn will see unabated the popularity of red and brown and yellow. In addition brilliant canary yellow. In fabrics there are many homespun and thick dress suitings for autumn and winter use. Some of the homespun are made up in the sleeveless models.

Dress Accessories. In dress accessories one of the interesting novelties of the moment is the waistline of novelty cotton. It is shown in checks and stripes in color, cotton matelasse, embroidered plique and cretonne, and is equally popular in the form of an actual blouse with sleeves and as a sleeveless vest. When sleeves are used they are almost always made of plain color fabric and in a lighter weight than the waistcoat proper. When worn with a pongee, linen or pretty silk coat and skirt suit these bright waistcoats are decidedly smart.

Fastidious Footwear. Novelties in gloves, shoes and other dress accessories are prominent in the displays of apparel for early fall. In footwear the newest thing is the fur shoe. A number of fur shoe styles are offered, one of the most effective being a smart pump combining black and gray broadtail and looking at a little distance much like the gray and black suede pumps worn for years.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

"YOU ARE VERY WELCOME."

"We're going to have a dance," said the Mountain Fairies to Lady Gray Cloud, "and so we would like to ask a favor of you."

"We would be glad if you didn't go to have dinner with the King of the Clouds and his family until a little later this afternoon."

"We're sure he wouldn't mind dining a little bit later this evening."

"I'll gladly do as you ask," said Lady Gray Cloud. "If you will let me watch your party, I will not speak to the King of the Clouds, so you needn't worry. There will be no rain until your party is over. I will see to that."

"Oh, thank you, thank you," said the Mountain Fairies.

"You are very welcome," said Lady Gray Cloud.

"It is so lovely up here," said the Mountain Fairies. "Down below it is so much later in the season than it is up here. Flowers are beginning to look like autumn down there and up here it still looks so summery."

"That is always the way it is up here," said Lady Gray Cloud. "The Mountain King likes to have things later up here. The whole reason is that he is so fond of the Seasons that he can't bear to let them go and so he begs them, to stay and stay, and so every season is a bit late."

"But, of course, you know all that," said Lady Gray Cloud after a moment.

"Yes, we know that," said the Mountain Fairies. "But we have been visiting our relatives, the Woodland Fairies, who live down at the foot of the mountain, and so we notice the change. Of course, there is a difference in the air, too."

"Of course, that accounts for it, too, but, then, as you say, the Mountain King does urge the Seasons to stay as late as they possibly can and they simply cannot refuse him."

"When we were down in the woods, we saw some lovely plants with purple flowers, one flower which was hidden for its own pleasure and one which was shown to the world."

"Then, too, we saw some ferns which said their relatives lived in an apartment, for some little girl had told them she had seen some of their relatives, but then she told them that these fern relatives were very well treated."

"She said that they were put out on the fire escape every rainy day and that they did enjoy the change from the hot apartment."

"The little girl also said that she was so happy now that she didn't have to pay any attention to her teacher's watch."

"She said her teacher's watch was always absolutely right, and when she thought she was only a few minutes late, her teacher's watch showed that she was later, for no one could make that watch change from doing right and keeping right on time."

"She said it was now vacation time so that she didn't have to think of that watch which she really thought was very unkind."

"Oh, we had a very good time visiting our Woodland Cousins, but now we are back on our Mountain Home and it is always nice to get home."

"And we must begin our dance soon, for otherwise we'll use up all the time in talking."

So the Mountain Fairies danced and danced, and after they had danced a long time they said:

"Now we are going to have our refreshments under yonder big tree, so if you like, Lady Gray Cloud, why don't you dine with the King of the Clouds now?"

So Lady Gray Cloud dined with the King of the Clouds and his family and there was much merry-making and such laughter up on top of the Mountain among the Mountain Fairies that the Rainbow came out to see what was going on.

Then another Rainbow came, too, and the double Rainbow was seen by the earth people as it stretched across a beautiful lake and each end bent down to the water and told the water what was going on up on the Mountain Top, and how Mr. Sun and the King of the Clouds and Lady Gray Cloud were all laughing together.

WONDERFUL GAIN IN WEIGHT REPORTED

Young Women Only Weighed 9 Pounds When Weighs Over 100 and is Gaining Every Day.

"Before I began taking Tanlac I only weighed 76 pounds, I now weigh over one hundred and am gaining every day," said Miss LaBue Davis of Chattanooga, Tenn.

"I bought my first bottle of Tanlac at Gas City, Ind., and it helped me so much that I continued using it. I have always been very delicate and suffered a great deal from stomach trouble and rheumatism. I rarely ever had any appetite and simply could not relish anything. I fell off until I only weighed 76 pounds and was so thin I looked perfectly awful. This is the condition I was in when I began taking Tanlac."

"Oh, I feel so different now. Even my complexion is improved. My appetite is good and I can hardly get enough to eat. Tanlac is simply grand and I can truthfully say it is the only medicine that has ever done me any good."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Advertisement.

Passing of the Fiats.

Paris is losing its luster and this means of transportation is being replaced by the taxis. A few years ago it was computed that there were 8,000 of these small carriages moving about the streets of Paris, but at last count there were only a few more than 200.

MOTHER! MOVE

CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Hurry, mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement.

She Didn't Mind It.

Algernon Tassie, whose views concerning women in his play, "The Craft of the Tortoise," are very irritating to many women, tells of one at a lecture of his, who turned to another woman, seated near her, and said severely:

"I'd hate to be married to that man."

"Oh, it isn't so bad," replied Mrs. Tassie. "I don't mind it."—New York Evening Post.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine

Those who are in a "run down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions.

HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a tonic and acts through the blood upon the mucous surfaces of the body, thus reducing the inflammation and assisting Nature in restoring normal conditions. All Druggists Circulate Free.

CHOOSE GOOD BEDDING FOR HEALTH AND COMFORT.

The bed is the most important piece of furniture in a bedroom. Home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture recommends that if only a limited amount may be spent in furnishings, it is wise to economize elsewhere, so that a good mattress and springs may be purchased.

The mattress should first be protected by an unbleached muslin slip which can be washed occasionally.

Next comes a light weight quilted pad, also washable, for further protection and smoothness. This can be bought ready-made or made of muslin and cotton batting, or an old light-colored quilt or cotton blanket may be used.

The quality of the sheets and pillow-cases depends on how much one has to invest. Homemade sheets and pillow-cases have the advantage of being fitted to a particular bed, and often the materials wear better, but ready-made ones of good quality are sometimes more economical to buy. Sheets should be from 24 to 36 inches wider and longer than the mattress so that the ends and sides can be generously tucked in, and the top of the upper one turned down to keep the blankets clean. The hem at the top of a sheet should be at least 2 1/2 inches, and at the bottom from 1/4 to 1 inch. Machine hemstitching makes a pretty finish for pillowcases, and the wider hem of a sheet. Seamless tubing can be bought for pillowcases.

Soft, fluffy blankets, containing a large proportion of good quality wool, are generally considered more comfortable and also most durable if given proper care. Many reliable manufacturers state the percentage of wool on a card attached to the blanket. Cotton blankets, when new, are in many cases as warm as wool, but they tend to become matted with wear and washing and consequently less warm. If a blanket is chosen with a colored border, the border should be of the same quality wool as the rest of the blanket.

Comfortables of wool or cotton batting covered first with an outer covering of pretty light-weight material and then with a heavy blanket are often interesting, but not very warm considering their weight. Striped dimity bedspreads with pillow shams to match are deservedly popular because they are dainty, easy to launder durable and inexpensive.
Having 2 spreads permits a bed to be kept always fresh.

Use Fireless Cooker in Raising Bread. Dough.

In very warm or very cold weather it is often difficult to maintain an even temperature in which to allow bread dough to rise. If a sponge is set at night, it should be kept at an ordinary room temperature (60 degrees to 75 degrees F.), depending on how long it is to stand, says the United States Department of Agriculture. When ever dough has been prepared (as distinguishes from a sponge), the temperature should be fairly warm—between 80 degrees and 85 degrees F.
A good way to assure an even temperature in either case, it is suggested, is to set the sponge or dough in the fireless-cooker using a thermometer to start with, to determine the temperature when the dough or sponge is put in.

11-YEAR GOITRE IS QUICKLY REMOVED.

Detroit Woman Relieved of Pain and Distress by Home Remedy.

Note: It would be illegal to publish these statements if they were not true.

Miss Emma Ross, 58 Grayling Ave., Detroit, Michigan, says in her own paper, the Detroit Free Press:
"My friends have been asking, 'What has happened to your goitre?' One half bottle Sorbol Quadruple has cured my goitre. It was reduced nearly two inches. It has been growing 11 years. It used to pain me some and it looked terrible. I feel it my duty to tell everyone about my cure either personally or by letter."

Sorbol Quadruple comes in small bottles containing enough for most cases. It will not irritate or inflame.
Does not interfere with daily work.
Leaves the parts in healthy, normal condition. Requires ten minutes daily.

WOMEN GIVE OUT.

Mrs. Peter F. Jorgensen says: "My back used to ache all the time and it was hard for me to do my housework.
When I did the least bit of work I always had sharp pains dart through my back and it was lame. I was weak, tired, nervous and all run down.
I became depressed and irritable. I often felt dizzy headed and saw many black specks pass before me.
My kidneys were weak and irregular in action, too. I couldn't sleep well at night and was very restless. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and purchased a box at Lewis' Drug Store and they cured me in a splendid way."
Housework is hard enough when healthy. Every Grayling woman who is having backache, blue and nervous spells, dizzy headache, and kidney or bladder troubles, should be glad to heed this Grayling woman's experience.
